

Which reaction is probably at the lowest temperature using the same concentration of reactants?

