

At the positive electrode negative ions are reduced by losing electrons