

A gas is soluble in water and has a low density. Which method can be used to collect the gas?