

All three reactions have the same concentration of reactants. Which reaction is happening at the highest temperature?