

High pressure favours the production of SO_3 in the contact process. Why is high pressure not used in industry?