

What is common to both transition metals and all other metals?